What is your position in your organisation in relation to the decision-making process?

I make decisions by myself because I am responsible for the organisation and its development.

As a head of the organisation, I am used to listen to my colleagues and I can change my opinion.

We usually make joint decisions where every voice and opinion has its right to be discussed.

I can participate in decision-making processes, but my beliefs hardly ever taken into account.

I cannot affect the decision-making process in my organisation.
